

Panch Pokhari Trekking

<https://www.nectravels.com/package/panch-pokhari-trekking/>

Panch Pokhari is named after 5 holy ponds and Hindus religiously respect the place. This is just northeast of Kathmandu toward the snow wall. The beautiful Himalayan view and pristine nature with distinct culture is the most attraction of the trek. After breakfast we take a bus ride out of the Valley and up through the hills. After a 5 hours bus ride we will arrive at the trek starting point called Chautara. We are going to spend the first night of our outdoor adventure right near a small town on the ground. Our Guide gives a short lesson on trekking on the first night. He also explains about the altitude sickness and all the beautiful spots from where you can see an excellent view of mountains.

During the rest of our 12 days trek, we observe the different ways of life, culture and come in contact with the people in the small village, passing through the dense forestations and meadows. The top of Panch Pokhari (5 lakes) offers an excellent view of Jugal Himal range, Rolwaling range, Gosainkunda etc. On the last day of the trip we take a bus ride back to Kathmandu from Melamchi where we spend the final night of our trip.

Itinerary

Day Day 01: Arrival Kathmandu & transfer to a hotel.

Day Day 02: Full day Kathmandu Sightseeing

Day Day 03: Drive to Chautara & Trek to Sano Okhareni, camp (1965m)

Day Day 04: Trek to - Kami Kharka (2810m)

Day Day 05: Trek to - Pauwa Bas, camp (3000m)

Day Day 06: Trek to - Hille Bhanjyang, camp (3400m)

Day Day 07: Trek to - Narsim Pati, camp (3700m)

Day Day 08: Trek to - Panch Pokhari (4100m)

Day Day 09: Trek to - Panch Pokhari Top - Tupi Danda, camp (2320m)

Day Day 10: Trek to - Dhap, camp (1200m)

Day Day 11: Dhap - Rest day and Explore the culture, camp

Day Day 12: Trek to Melamchi, camp (800m)

Day Day 13: Drive: Melamchi - Kathmandu, transfer to hotel

Day Day 14: Final departure onward destination